Risks and rules

The risks

Axe throwing has risks, including:

- Cuts from a blade, including while picking up or carrying an axe
- An axe or a piece of wood bouncing back off the target, the floor or the lane walls
- Being hit by another thrower's axe if someone steps into a lane during a throw
- Splinters and wood chips from the targets
- Strained shoulders, elbows, wrists and backs from repeated throwing
- Trips and falls on the lane floor

I understand these risks, and others no one can foresee, and that some remain even when the staff and other guests take care. I choose to take part.

Lane rules

- Closed-toe shoes the whole time.
- One thrower per lane. Everyone else waits behind the line.
- Throw only when the lane next to you isn't retrieving.
- Never hand an axe to someone. Set it down and let them pick it up.
- Retrieve together with the thrower next to you, after both have thrown.
- Axes stay in the lane and never leave the throwing area.

I'll follow these rules and every instruction from the staff. The staff may stop me or ask me to leave if I don't.

Initials

Drinks and throwing

The staff may stop me from throwing at any point if they think drinking has affected my judgment or aim.
